Office Hours: 2-4pm Wednesdays in Candler Hall B02, or by appointment.

Required Texts:

- Ian Burama, Murder in Amsterdam: The Death of Theo Van Gogh and the Limits of Tolerance, Penguin, 2006.- Referred to as MiA in course outline
- <http://www.globalization101.org/>
- Other readings will be uploaded to eLC in good time

Objectives: This course is designed as an introduction to some of the main problems, issues and terms that are widely discussed in the study of global events and politics. We will focus becoming familiar with these common topics and events, and especially attempt to understand how these issues are related to each other and to broader social processes. While this is a course about worldwide occurrences that specifically approaches issues through the lens of political science, in our discussions and readings we will still draw from history, geography, anthropology, and sociology. In this way, we will hope to better contextualize these issues in larger debates about global directions and politics. Given this, keeping up with the news and current events would be very helpful and is strongly encouraged.

This course will also introduce students to the basics of social science research. Students should leave this course with greater familiarity in understanding and communicating social science research, as well as how to better analyze these issues on their own.

Important Dates: Below are important test and due dates. Note that they, as well as everything else in the syllabus, may be changed as the semester continues. I will notify you in good time of any updates.

Grading

- Attendance and Participation (25%): Attendance is not participation. Active participation implies paying attention in class, engagement with the material and with your fellow student colleagues. Please come prepared to class having read and willing to discuss the assigned material. Keep in mind these points as you read:
 1. What is the author's main point or argument?
 2. What evidence do they use to support their argument?
 3. Is there contradicting evidence?
 4. How does the authors argument relate to the other readings from the course?
- Midterm (25%)
- Final project: (50%) The final project will encompass multiple parts over the course of the semester. The goal of this project is to dive more deeply into a single global issue in a particular context/contexts and examine its causes, effects, and specific details. Also, be creative and choose something that is of interest to you!
 - Paper proposal (5%): 1-2 page proposal of your project idea with description of your main points.
 - Annotated Bibliography (10%): 5-7 of your main ACADEMIC articles that will be used in your project. Include brief descriptions of the source's theory, methodology, and application to your argument and paper..
 - Project Presentation (15%): Presentations will last 7-10 minutes and cover the main points of your final paper. You should also focus on introducing the class to your case/topic and demonstrate its importance and relevance. Must include some visual presentation aid such as PowerPoint, Prezi, etc.
 - Final Paper (20%): A paper of length 8-10 pages that develops details about a particular example or instance of a global issue in more detail we discussed in class, or one from outside of class. This can be a case study or a comparative analysis of the issue. You should provide scholarly research and/or data to support your argument and recommendations. This paper should demonstrate knowledge of the chosen global issue, comprehension of the relevant academic literature, and an ability to distill available information into a succinct analysis. For tips or specific advising on writing, the UGA Writing Center is always available to students.
